CORONER FAILS TO CLEAR WALKER DEATH MYSTERY

Not Known Whether Former Atlantian Killed Himself
or Was Murdered

Whether C. C. Walker, the young stone quarry engineer whose dead body was found Tuesday morning in a road between Lithonia and Union Grove, in DeKalb county, committed suicide or was murdered, was not determined at the coroner's inquest Tuesday afternoon. The jury brought in a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to his death at the hands of parties unknown.

Walker was shot through the right temple and a revolver borrowed by him from Policeman Arthur Council, of Lithonia, was found between his feet. There were two empty chambers in the revolver. Walker, who formerly lived in Atlanta and whose divorced wife and two children still live in this city, was recently residing with his father, "Will" Walker, at Union Grove, and had been employed at one of the quarries of the Peach Mountain Granite Company near Lithonia.

He was in Atlanta Monday and is believed to have met his death there, returning home. Unconfirmed reports among his fellow workmen were to the effect that on Monday he had drawn from an Atlanta bank which he intended to invest in stone quarry. These reports led to the suspicion that he might have been robbed and murdered by highwaymen who shot him with the pistol he carried.

Another unconfirmed report was that while in Atlanta Monday Walker borrowed $5 from one of his employees, those who accepted this report as true believe that the young man killed himself. Walker's body was found early Tuesday morning by Harry Hamneck, a youth of Lithonia, who was starting out on a hunt. He noticed the authorities. Friends of the young man, who went to the scene, saw evidence of a struggle, which included a broken bottle, a hammer and a piece of wood. Walker's body was found near the road, and was surrounded by tracks made by three different kinds of shoes. According to relatives Walker and his wife lived in Michigan at the time domestic differences developed which later resulted in a divorce. Walker is said to have made his home in Atlanta on several occasions when he was employed on railroad construction work in and near the city.

In his pocket were a number of letters. One of these was from his little sister, who was signed "Mother." It thanked him for some "little trinkets" and "expressed the warmest wishes of the child for a happy Christmas for her father. There were other letters, one of these being from a young Atlanta woman with whom Walker is said to have been very friendly.

THURSDAY IS CHILDREN'S DAY AT MONTGOMERY

From 11 A. M. to 6 P. M.,
Kiddies Will See Show
Free of Charge

Thursday is Children's day at the Montgomery Theater. From 11 o'clock in the morning to 6 o'clock in the afternoon all the kiddies in the city are invited to a free show, the Montgomery's Christmas gift to juvenile Atlanta.

Every youngster in every part of town is urged to come. Growups aren't wanted, although they will be admitted if they accompany children. It is strictly by the children's hour and the Montgomery wants them to enjoy it to the uttermost.

For Children's day the management has selected a picture that will appeal to the heart of every youngster, Mary Pickford, "the best known girl in America," and the friend of all the little folks, will be the star. In the old fairy tale of Cinderella and the Slipper, the picture is in five parts, and from the first flicker of the film to the last is replete with scenes that will delight the imagination of all the children.

MEN AND RELIGION BULLETIN NO. 152

Christ Is In Our Midst

CHRISTMAS EVE

CO-OPERATION

CHRISTMAS DAY

"The love of Christ constraineth us---He died for all, that they that live should no longer live unto themselves, but unto Him who for their sakes died and rose again."

---2 Cor. 5. 14

"Christ in you--

"As therefore you received Christ Jesus, the Lord, so walk in Him, rooted and builded up in Him--

"Christ, who is our life--"Christ is all, and in all--

"Whatsoever you do, in word or in deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus--

"Work heartily as unto the Lord and not unto men--

"You serve the Lord Christ."---Colossians.

In Nazareth, people had scorned her. Joseph, the village carpenter, had doubted whether he should marry her; but God had quieted his fears. And now breathless he begged from door to door in Bethlehem for shelter for Mary, his wife.

No room for her?

Should a woman sleep by the roadside? Must one die for want of a roof in the great hour of her need?

Nay. She may rest with the beasts. Straw in the stable. She could have that for her bed.

There Jesus was born. Joseph taught Him His trade, carpentry. His roving, tramping, shelterless, teaching life began when he was thirty.

He taught love for God and man. For this, at the request of religious leaders, pagan Pilate crucified Him between two thieves. But the grave could not hold Him.

A NEW POWER, DEATHLESS LIFE HAD BEEN BORN INTO THE WORLD WITH HIM. HE WORKS THROUGH MEN. HE LIVES IN THEM.

Saul of Tarsus revolted at this tale of a crucified man come from the tomb to reign over God's universe as an idle lie discreditable to the Jews; he thought to do the world and Israel a service by stamping it out; he stood by consenting, when Stephen, that first of deacons and first of martyrs, died, and then went forth to crush the church of the living God.

On Damascus Road he heard--

"Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me? It is hard for thee to kick against the pricks."

"Who art thou, Lord?" he answered.

"I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest."

"LORD, WHAT WILT THOU HAVE ME DO?"

He arose, born anew through Him to become Paul the Apostle. And from man to man, nation to nation, ran the living, flaming word of God breaking down barriers, freeing slaves and burning brotherhood, the law of love, "the perfect law of liberty" into the hearts of all mankind.

Christ was at work in man. Co-operation had been born with Him. Do you say, either sneering or in sorrow --"Yes: look abroad at men killing men, butchery and vandalism breaking against the very doors of the so-called houses of God."

Your very thought proves the presence of the risen Lord in His world. You are not alone. Think you yours is the only sympathetic heart? No. Thousands, yea millions to-day lifted by the surge of the living love in the hearts of all mankind, born with the Babe of Bethlehem, are in revolt--They protest at making mothers, wives and children suffer--At the maiming and killing of men, not because they are Germans or Frenchmen or Belgians or Englishmen or Russians, but because they are men, brothers to us through Christ, and children of one Father, even God.

Yea. A Savior has been born. CHRIST IS HERE.

TODAY, THE SON OF MARY, WHO CAME TO BETHLEHEM TO ENROLL FOR TAXATION BY HEATHEN CAESAR--HER SON SEES IN AMERICA A NATION THAT KNOWS NO CAESAR, MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN DRAWN FROM EVERY NATIONALITY, WHO BELIEVE BROTHERHOOD TO BE REAL, A PEOPLE WHO HAVE NO KING SAVE GOD AND CHRIST, HIS SON.

Our teeming millions look back today over the way which we have come. And behold. We know; our life and liberty were born with the Baby in the bed of straw that Christ-mas so long ago; His life throbbing, pulsing through ours, is bringing us into our own, the freedom and joy of the children of God.

Imperfect, weak, we go forward, each crying out with Paul; "Not that I have already obtained, or am already made perfect; but I press on if so be that I lay hold on that for which also I was laid hold on by Christ Jesus."

Even as He laid hold on Paul, He lays hold on you.

HAVE YOU NOT SEEN AND FELT HIS TOUCH.

When men gather in town meetings, city councils and legislative bodies, He is there. Yesterday, and even now in Washington, law-makers are fighting, one side for evil, the other for good. And men are saying and feeling that in the end right will inevitably win. Evil must go.

Surely you have seen and heard His work in Atlanta.

THE SPIRIT OF CO-OPERATION IS HERE.

Labor organizations come to the church of the living God; churches unite with them and with employers of labor, bring before our City Council the needs of the unemployed. And today because of these forces getting together in the spirit of co-operation, of brotherhood, Atlanta and Fulton have given hundreds of idle men the work which they so sorely needed.

More. The churches, united, using the Associated Charities and co-operating with that organization in Christ's name are taking care of our poor, not by tossing coins to beggars, but by studying and seeking out the secret of the poverty and straits of the poor that the roots of their troubles may be removed and men and women enabled to live and walk in God given strength.

Yea. Christ is in our midst. LOOK INTO YOUR HEART. Is He not there? If not--is He not knocking for entrance, trying to lay hold on you and to make you a part of the great brotherhood which moves on to ultimate inevitable victory with Him. Let Him in. He needs your life.

This Christmas, co-operation will hide for the day the hell which poverty and crime have made in many a home. But if Christ be in your heart, you will say, "Better for me to give no present at all, whether it be one cent or a thousand dollars, if the giving will make me contented and satisfied to stop."

Answer, men and women in Christ with Christ in your heart--

Whence came this sorrow and need, which your kindness will hide for the day?

You know--

THE SYSTEM, WHICH ENABLES MEN, LIVING WITH THEIR FAMILIES

IN LUXURY, to yet save money and accumulate wealth, while the men and women working for them must live, hand to mouth, from day to day because of the lack of a sufficient wage, so that, when a crisis, like the present one, comes, they who have enjoyed luxury, can let the laborers, who have lived desperately hard, go to live by charity, while they, the employers, continue living in luxury TALKING ABOUT THE THRIFTLESSNESS OF THE POOR WHO SAVE NOTHING FOR A RAINY DAY--

Yea. You know--
SUCH A SYSTEM IS AS WRONG, AS DIABOLICAL, AS CHRISTLESS AS THE WAR IN EUROPE.

ITS END BEGAN WHEN CHRIST WAS BORN. Jesus, our Savior, working through co-operating women and men will make an end of it. The power of the risen Lord can and will conquer the sin of greed. Who that looks about him and hears and feels the surging pity at the pain in our world can doubt that He is here at work upon this to-day?

Christ has come.
BUT LOOK AT CRIME?
Men used of Him are seeking its cure.

Know you not He will save EVEN THE FOOTPAD, THE HIGHWAYMAN, THE SECOND-STORY MAN, THE BURGLAR--

YEA EVEN THE WOMAN WITH THE SCARLET LETTER AND THE MAN WHO HAS DENIED HIS LORD for fear? You forget: the first to enter Paradise with your Lord was a thief--The first to see Him coming from the grave was the Magdalene--and next He appeared to swearing, cursing, denying Peter.

CHRIST LOVES THE LOW.
You, who say that religion must not get into the mire, you forget--No man or woman has ever fallen so low that Christ would not follow. And He bids us do the same--promising to go with us.

Nothing is more striking than the strides He is making fighting against crime, striving to stop the sources of it. Its death was decreed when He was born.

ONE SOURCE OF IT, THE LIQUOR TRADE, CONSIDER IT.

George Kennan, in the Outlook of December 16th, quotes the leading Russian Reviews and papers, which he says "Are not prohibition organs," and gives facts concerning the fight against crime and poverty in Russia which startle. From innumerable instances cited, we quote only these--

"In Yaroslav, the registers of the Justices of the Peace show that between the 31st of July and the 28th of August there was brought before the magistrates only one case. In the same length of time before the dispensaries closed, the number of cases often exceeded two hundred."

"The number of crimes and offenses in this city (Kostroma) prior to the suspension of the Vodka traffic was about three hundred. In the first half of August there were only eight."

"Nicholas II--and the Grand Duke Nicholas overruled the whole Council of Ministers on the question whether the transition from drunkenness to sobriety should not be made gradually by the substitution of beer for vodka. THE COUNCIL AGREED TO REDUCE THE ALCOHOLIC STRENGTH OF THE BEER TO THREE PER CENT (ONE PER CENT LESS THAN OUR CITY COUNCIL IS PERMITTING TO BE UNLAWFULLY SOLD IN ATLANTA) AND TO INCREASE THE PRICE BUT THE CZAR AND THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF WOULD NOT HAVE IT. BEER, AS WELL AS VODKA MUST GO--(Petrograd 'Reitch,' October 31st and New York Evening Post, November 16th, 1914)."

ATLANTA DUPLICATES RUSSIA'S FIGURES AS TO THE REDUCTION IN CRIME.

In the year 1907, the year before prohibition went into effect, the total number of arrests in Atlanta for all crimes were 24,882. In 1908, the year in which prohibition was enforced, before the locker clubs and saloons under the sanction of Council had begun to infest our City, the total number of arrests was 16,072, a reduction of 8,810 arrests in one year.

Despite the spread of law-breaking saloons and locker clubs, in 1913, when Atlanta had a population of 220,372 against 158,026 for 1907, the total number of arrests were only 17,022, or 7,860 less than the total number of arrests for 1907 when liquor had undisputed sway.

Consider those figures. Then think of the last few months. Is it not clear that the source of the so-called wave of crime in our city is want, the locker clubs and saloons, all of which have their root in sin?

We are co-operating to meet the want. THE SACRIFICE OF A CHIEF OF POLICE FOR DOING HIS DUTY, OR BECAUSE OF POLITICAL SPITE, OR BECAUSE OF THE FEAR OF WHAT HE WILL DO AS THE HEAD OF OUR POLICE FORCE WHEN PEOPLE AWAKEN, AS THEY CERTAINLY WILL, TO THE SPREAD OF CRIME BY THE WANTON DISREGARD OF THE LIQUOR LAWS while Council holds our Police Force with hands tied by the City's license--

NAY: THAT WOULD NOT STOP CRIME.

But this will--
From Bethlehem, the mother and the Baby in the straw to our land, our State, our City today, is a far, far cry. But each step of the way proves Him who was cradled in the manger to have been--proves Him to be the King of Kings, the Lord of lords, the life of your life.

Herod vainly warred against the Baby. He brought agony to untold numbers of mothers of the children of men. BE NOT LIKE HEROD THIS CHRISTMAS DAY! WAR NOT AGAINST CHRIST!

BELIEVE HIM. TRUST HIM.
Soldiers and wealth vainly fought to uphold Rome. That City fell.

Christ is here.
The City--the life which rests on Him can never fail.

"There is born to you--a Savior."

WOODWARD TELLS COUNCIL NOT TO PLAY POLITICS

Declares Efforts to Care for
"Political Pete" Injures
Bond Issue

When Mayor Woodward could not be found in the city hall Tuesday afternoon to preside over a council session so that a number of citizens, among them the mayor's old-time enemy, Aldine Chambers, could be elected to city boards, the general impression prevailed in council that the mayor had taken this step to block the election of Mr. Chambers.

But the mayor says this is not the case. "I simply did not know that council would meet," the mayor said Wednesday morning, "and so I was absent from the city hall from Tuesday afternoon 4:30 to 1 p.m. I expect, however, to be there Thursday when council meets, and then I can go into the elections."

AGAINST CHAMBERS.
The mayor, however, lets it be known in very plain words that his intention to preside over Thursday's council is not to be construed as an approval of the proposed election of Mr. Chambers.

"Council by playing politics," said the mayor, referring to the proposed election, "is killing all hope of a bond issue. They must as well stop talking about bonds if they are going to elect such political pets regardless of the interest of the city."

"I have had half a dozen prominent business men, who are now for bonds, tell me this morning that if council carries out the announced intention in this matter, they will not only refuse to vote for bonds, but will fight them."

"While my absence Tuesday was accidental, I am glad that I was away so that council will have an opportunity to think over what is at stake."

NO OPPOSITION YET.
Mr. Chambers is slated for election to the board of education to succeed George M. Hope, resigned. So far no candidate in opposition has been announced, and he is said to have more than twenty of the thirty council members pledged to vote for him.

The terms of four members of the water board have expired, and Thursday they are slated for re-election, while John J. Woodside will likely succeed J. Lee Barnes as a member of the board from the sixth ward. Mr. Barnes has been elected to the 1915 council.

LOCK ON SAFE FOILS EFFORTS OF BURGLARS

After cutting out a large section of windowpane, burglars endeavored for several hours to pry an Aikin lock on the safe at Randall Brothers' company, 250 McDonald street, Tuesday night, and finally quit in disgust.

Employed found the glass cut out and the safe hammered when they arrived at the yard Wednesday morning. The yegmen had evidently tried to file the lock away, but it resisted all their efforts. Nothing of value was missing from the safe, and a small sum of money in the safe was still there.

An Intolerable Nuisance Which Council Should End.

Disgusted by the City's continued failure to provide street signs the residents of Ansley Park have determined to do so at their private expense. They have been annoyed, frequently at late hours of the night, by messengers seeking to locate a particular address in a maze of unposted avenues. The delivery of their parcels and mail has been delayed because there is no means, except random inquiry, of finding the streets. These and other inconveniences have obtained year after year, and repeated appeals for relief have been made, but the municipal government has remained unresponsive and apparently uninterested.

What is true of Ansley Park is true of the entire city. None of Atlanta's streets are properly marked, and most of them have no signs at all. This condition would have been allowable in ancient Bagdad or Sleepy Hollow, but in a modern city of two hundred thousand inhabitants it is an intolerable nuisance and disgrace. Visitors are instantly struck by the absence of street signs on business thoroughfares, and they find it bewildering to reach desired points in the residence sections. Indeed, it is almost impossible for a stranger to make his way without continual questioning or the aid of a guide.

In a community of this size, a sign is as essential to a street as a name is to a person. It is the city government's duty to provide such signs. The cost of this improvement would be negligible beside the service it would render. How much longer will the Atlanta public be denied a convenience and a necessity to which it is so plainly entitled?

Council's January appropriation sheet should provide funds for this purpose; not to do so would be an injustice to taxpayers and a reproach upon Council.

Just because Santa Claus is a Teutonic name, the Allies are not going to keep him out of the country.

They are brushing up the water-wages and nailing down the seats, but it's a long way to 1916 and the resolve of today are the regrets of tomorrow.

The Far-reaching Value Of the Warehouse Bill.

The agricultural products warehouse bill which passed the House of Representatives on Monday, and which essentially is the measure approved some months ago by the Senate, is the most feasible and most substantial plan of relief yet proposed for cotton interests. It provides for the federal licensing of cotton and grain warehouses, thus giving assured value to warehouse receipts as collateral on which loans may be sought. Furthermore as its advocates declare, it will develop more extensive storage facilities (a manifest need of the farmer) and will put the grower in a position to market his products to the best possible advantage.

The following aspects of the bill are noteworthy: The receipts issued by licensed warehouses shall describe accurately and fully the commodities placed in storage; careful records of all such transactions shall be kept and shall be subject to inspection by the Secretary of Agriculture; the Department of Agriculture is also authorized to determine whether the cotton stored is actually of the grade or class certified in the receipt, and to publish its findings. These and kindred provisions will make the warehouse licensed by the Government so responsible and safe that receipts issued by them will inspire thorough confidence as security for credit.

The farmer, moreover, will be enabled to know precisely the commercial value as well as the class and grade of his products. He will be enabled also to turn his sound resources for credit to timely and definite advantage. And he will be encouraged to store his crops at these approved market centers, instead of leaving them exposed to the wear and tear of the weather; this one item, it is estimated, will save millions of waste and deterioration.

The warehouse receipts bill was introduced at the last session of Congress by Senator Hoke Smith in the Senate, and by Congressman Lever in the House. It passed the Senate without difficulty or delay, but action in the House was deferred. Subsequently the measure was amended in the House, and as to include grain as well as cotton and to provide for other services. In its amended form, it now goes to conference where it has every prospect of speedy perfection and final enactment. It will prove broadly advantageous to agricultural interests, and particularly so to the farmers of the South.

Achievements in Rural Sanitation.

The vast improvements that can be made in the sanitation of rural districts, and the consequent saving of money and life are strikingly witnessed in a recent bulletin by the North Carolina Board of Health. Choosing for illustration a county where natural conditions were most untoward and where the majority of the people were illiterate the Board shows that in the last three years the death rate from preventable diseases has been reduced seventy per cent, that mortality has fallen from eighteen to twelve a thousand, and that there has been an annual saving of one hundred lives, which represents an economic value of $250,000.

These achievements are credited to well made, well administered laws and particularly to the service of full time health officers. North Carolina has earned national prestige by its enlightened and liberal policy in matters of rural sanitation. Commenting upon the efficient work that State's board of health the New York Sun observes:

"Modern economics recognizes health as an important asset for the prosperity of the community. When people awake to the seriousness of their health problems, they will cease to regard the welfare of hogs and cattle as of greater importance than the health of the community. All health officials should be trained and well paid, and they should be placed under the direction of a central authority that may supervise their activities with the same vigilance that a General exercises over an army confronting an enemy. Disease being the ever-present foe of the people, trained sanitarians are demanded to prevent or limit its incursions."

The Legislature of Georgia recognized this principle when it enacted at its last session a vital statistics law and a public health law which, if duly administered, will save the State millions of dollars and thousands of lives. The public health law has particular reference to the needs of rural communities. It is designed to give people on farms and in villages and small towns sanitary protection which shall be thorough so far as is possible, as that which the cities enjoy. It is intended to control and eventually eradicate preventable diseases such as typhoid and malaria. It is an admirable law, and if given a fair test will mean more to the welfare of Georgia, especially the rural districts, than perhaps any other piece of legislation in the State's history.

But the best laws are useless unless they are carried into effect. This law will count for little or nothing unless the individual counties avail themselves of the opportunities it offers, and unless those of its provisions which are mandatory for the entire State are consistently carried out.

Medical and business men have waited for years to see the enactment of a vital statistics bill in Georgia, and last summer their efforts were rewarded. The law is now upon the statute books. It is to be hoped that the responsible authorities are sparing no pains to gather statistics in every county and to keep records that will be accurate and comprehensive. Georgia was the last State in the Union to adopt a system which health authorities everywhere recognize as essential to campaigns against disease. This delay was unfortunate enough, but now there is no excuse for further inaction. The cost of compiling vital statistics should be pressed vigorously forward in every part of the State, in the country districts as well as the cities.

Several important provisions of the public health law are dependent upon the voluntary action of individual counties. It would be better perhaps, had the law been passed without such qualifications, but apparently that was impossible. There is thus all the more reason however, why the representative men of each county should try their utmost to bring their community within the provisions of the State act. If popular sentiment needs to be aroused and educated to this end local campaigns for that purpose should be inaugurated forthwith.

The cost of employing full time health officers and of maintaining other sanitary safeguards is trivial beside the vast saving that can be effected in economic and human resources. If the death rate from preventable diseases can be reduced seventy per cent in the most backward county of North Carolina, surely every county in Georgia should follow the example of our progressive neighbor.

Lots of people are just waiting for the war to end so they can say "I told you so."

Uncasy lies the head that wears a crown these days. Yes, and lies and lies and lies.

The bad weather is responsible for lots of holdups. Look at the umbrellas and skirts on a rainy day.

The woman who is said to enjoy ill health is the same kind that is never so happy as when she is heartbroken.

Senator William S. West.

In the death of former United States Senator William S. West, there has passed a man whose friendship was cherished by unnumbered Georgians and whose service to the Commonwealth will long be remembered. As a member of the State Legislature he was particularly zealous in the cause of education. His support and influence could always be depended upon for the common schools and also for the higher institutions of learning. His tenure of office in the national Senate was marked by intense earnestness of purpose and unflinching industry. Through the long and arduous months of an extraordinary session he gave the best that was in him to the people he represented.

Senator West's untimely death is a source of deep regret to the entire State and especially so to South Georgia where his broad relationships to business and civic and social interests won him hundreds of friends who valued him not only for his public service but also for the kindness of his personality.

GEORGE ROGERS

BY DR. FRANK CARL.
(Copyright, 1914, by Frank Crane.)

Some time ago I wrote an article upon the duty of the laborer to keep out of the city, showing that "armies of the unemployed" were peculiar to great cities, and reminding men that in small towns and rural communities, as a rule, they would be of little service to the community as a whole. In this article I quoted from a letter that had appeared in a Chicago paper, signed by the name of George Rogers, of Thistle Junction, Utah.

Rogers had just written me about the matter, which I shall quote, as it is full of what I have heard, and I think, that some who grow wild all over this country. Rogers is now porter in the Denver and Rio Grande hotel at Thistle Junction.

"Having seen your article concerning on what I wrote on the unemployed problem, I take this opportunity of thanking you for more fully explaining just what I meant."

"I would like to know you what actually can be done. For instance, all this last summer I worked in the wheat fields of western Kansas, making three and a half dollars a day, and then for a while I worked in the fruit orchards of Colorado, making good money there also."

"And I may say that more men could have found employment in both places."

"I always look to find a job in some small town, or in the country, and I am doing so now. I am in this hotel, and have a very comfortable place. The cook here has had a similar experience, only his was in New York City; but all cities are alike."

He suggests an organization to encourage laborers to save money in summer to keep them from being idle in winter. He says, "that causes them to be a such a pitiable condition when winter comes." He is also down on the saloon. "I have received in the great many letters that I have played men all over the country and have answered them all to the best of my ability."

"I repeat that the prime reason for city unemployment is the fact that the city is a place where the Thistle Junction hotel, answering letters. There is a touch of Americanism in this. Our people appreciate a man doing a hard day's work in the city, and it is from Porter Rogers as from President Elliot."

And do workers realize how much more money they can make in the small towns and in the country than in the cities and the east?

In New York City George Rogers might be averted from his hotel and sent to the country, where he could do nothing and nobody. In Thistle Junction, and in ten thousand like it, he may be as respected as a citizen. He is not a beggar, and he will not be with him with merchants and lawyers, and altogether will feel like a regular human being."

"I repeat that the prime reason for city unemployment is transportation, and that nothing better could be devised than some method of getting the unemployed to the crowded places to move them to the great, hospitable west and south."

"Tests of Culture"

One's faith in the wide diffusion of knowledge among us, which is supposed to compensate for the lack of genius, is shaken by a recent "general culture" test in English at the University of Chicago is a recent victim of such a test. Although the authorities took the precaution of refusing to make public the answers given to the questions set, one student is reported to have explained to the Graduate Council that he had taken the test in the United States; another to have confessed Chauvinism with G. BOND QUESTION PASSED ON TO COUNCIL OF 1915

Election to Pass on $3,000,000 Probably Will Be Called for March or April

The ordinance to call an election March 1 for a $3,000,000 bond issue was referred by the general council Tuesday afternoon to the council of 1915.

The ordinance was not even read, but when the council was adjourned, Councilman Claude Mason moved that it be referred to next year's council, and the motion was carried without debate.

The bond matter, however, will be taken up early in 1915, and an election will probably be called for March or April. Several changes, however, are expected in the present ordinance before the question of bonds is finally submitted to the people.

One of the controlling factors in the passing of the bond ordinance to next year's council was the opposition of Mayor Woodward to the plan of having this year's council order an election for a date when it will not be in office.

Alderman J. R. Nutting, who was a member of the special bond committee, and who assisted the city attorney in drawing the ordinance stated there is doubt of the legality of passing this year an ordinance requiring an election in 1915, as the bond election of 1913 was called in 1909, but he said an effort would be made to overcome this objection.

Mr. Nutting pointed out that under the ordinance limiting the amount of property valued at the city's taxable property within that limit and have more than $5,000,000 worth of bonds twice the amount of the bonded issue.

USED IN BULLDOG ESPERANTO BULLETINS TELL WAR'S PROGRESS

Dr. Cecil Stockard Receives Translations of Official German Reports

Dr. Cecil Stockard, the Atlanta delegate of the Universal Esperanto association, has received from the Esperanto headquarters at Leipzig, Germany, translations into Esperanto of the official reports of the German military authorities.

This is a striking example of the active propaganda being carried on by the Germans to get their side of the war before the people of the world. They evidently feel that the outside world is not yet receiving the reports concerning the progress of the war and they are therefore using Esperanto as a means of giving circulation to the German point of view.

The Esperanto bulletins are published with the special approval of the German military authorities, and until recently it has been impossible to send any information out of Germany except in the German language.

COUNCIL GIVES CLAYTON BERTH WITH THE CITY

Ordinance Passed Creating New Position of Consulting Engineer

The city council Tuesday afternoon voted a testimonial to Captain R. M. Clayton, who retires on January 1 as chief of construction after serving the city for more than 30 years, by passing an ordinance creating the position of consulting engineer for the city.

The ordinance, introduced by Alderman Nutting, provides that no one shall be eligible for the office, who has not served the city in the construction department for 25 years continuously, and this bars everyone except Captain Clayton.

The position carries with it a salary of $1,200 a year, only, but it expressly provides that in the event any engineering work is required by the city from the consulting engineer, that he receive extra compensation.

The paper is certain to pass the aldermanic board, and according to Alderman Nutting the mayor has agreed to sign it.

KING AND SPALDING TO OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

Dinner at Capital City Club Will Mark 30 Years of Law Partnership

Alex C. King and Jack J. Spalding, two of the leading lawyers of the south, will entertain at the Capital City club the evening of January 1 in unique celebration of the thirtieth anniversary of their continuous law partnership.

The firm of King & Spalding was formed January 1, 1884, and the guests at the dinner New Year's day will consist of the judiciary and their associates among the members of the state bar who were practicing law at the time of the formation of the firm.

The law firm of King & Spalding is said to be the oldest in Georgia. It is so old in fact that the youngest member of the firm, Hughes Suddique, was unborn at the time of the firm's formation.

Mr. King and Mr. Spalding are both 58 years of age, the former being a South Carolinian by birth and the latter a Kentuckian.

SPECIAL MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS SERVICES

Special music has been prepared for Christmas day and the Sunday following by the reorganized choir of St. Paul's cathedral, under the directorship of Sidney Cooper, A. R. C. O., organist and choirmaster. The quartet and solo parts of the anthem will be sung by K. Villard and E. E. Eby, and the chorister boys.

Services will start at 10:30 a. m. The program follows:

Processional hymn, "O Come All Ye Faithful."
Te Deum in F—Dykes.
Communion service in F—Tours.
Hymn, "Of the Father's Love Begotten."
Hymn, "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

Offertorium anthem, "Sing O Heavens and Be Joyful O Earth"—Berthold Tours.
Hymn, "Dimittis—Tonus Regius."
Recessional hymn, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing."

Joe Schmidt once again has read his little clear to the name of "out-again-in-again." Out for two weeks under charge of Probation Officer Coglier, he was in again Wednesday, following a fearful fall from the water wagon Tuesday night.

Joe's history is a chronicle of flops. A year ago he was in the stockade. Then he escaped. Last summer he returned to serve out his sentence. He was arrested on another charge as soon as he did so. He promised reformation. He failed to reform. He was sent to the gang again. He got out, and was placed under care of the probation officer.

That was two weeks ago. Then disaster overtook Joe Tuesday night in the shape of the holiday spirit and red liquor. His fall was complete, and he is now on the inside looking out.

When the Cars Stop

We're going to make so bold as to mention a matter about which you have been gratifyingly patient. That is the two recent stoppages of street cars. Both happened during "rush hours," when workers were going home to rest and supper were waiting.

Always there is explanation for such embarrassing incidents. And, from our standpoint, there's nearly always good cause. But explanations and excuses don't substitute for wheels going round and cars moving homeward. We know that. Nor is it consolation to know similar things happen wherever electricity is driving.

Maybe some day when electrical science has been perfected even further than now, such things as short circuits and blowouts and their kind won't happen at all. Maybe equipment can be made, then, absolutely proof against them. We realize it can't, now, even though the highest price be paid for it.

Maybe too the human equation can be rendered infallible, some day.

But meanwhile we must work on with the best equipment and the best engineers obtainable. We must concentrate the attention of a well-organized department on keeping every detail level to efficiency. We must anticipate and strive incessantly to prevent even a moment's interruption in the service you buy from us.

We're doing all that, conscientiously.

When our efforts are defied by the tremendous unseen force we've chained, it embarrasses us much more than it inconveniences you.

Sale of Yankees' About Completed; Bill Donovan Tipped to Manage Team

Parties Agree On Details for Sale of Yanks

Bill Donovan, Last Year's Manager at Providence, and Former Detroit Pitcher, Expected to Be Chosen Manager—Team Will Get New Players—Price Reported $420,000

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Sale of the New York American baseball club and its reorganization under the leadership of "Wild Bill" Donovan, constituting one of the biggest transactions in the history of the league, virtually was completed here Tuesday. Formal announcement of the changes came with the arrival in New York today of Jacob Ruppert and T. L. Huston, the new owners of the Yankees. They had been here after completing with President B. B. Johnson negotiations which have been in progress several weeks.

It was intimated at the league headquarters that only the signatures were needed to make the documents of the sale complete. No official announcement was made, however, nor was any official statement forthcoming as to the identity of the new owners or players.

From other sources it was learned that Donovan, a former Detroit pitcher and last season's pitcher of the Providence International league team, had been chosen manager. It was not verified, that being Boston's High and Phipps, Detroit's Bill of St. Louis, and two other players were transferred to the New York club for immediate cash consideration. Donovan is expected to be given a chance later to figure on trades for other men.

The price for the franchise and players' contracts already held by the club has been given as about $420,000. A new baseball park, patterned after the home of the American league club, and costing approximately $125,000, exclusive of the site, will be built for the club. It was learned today.

President B. B. Johnson said Colonel Jacob Ruppert, Jr., and Captain T. L. Huston, the prospective purchasers of the club, already had an option on the property on which to build. The park, it is planned, will seat 40,000 persons, 5,000 more than any other plant in either of the major leagues. It will be erected within two years, it was said.

Fetzer to Coach Davidson Teams

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 22.—The announcement by the college authorities that the appointment of "Bill" Fetzer, coach Davidson's athletics for the coming year was greeted with great enthusiasm by the entire student body. Fetzer is a man well known in Virginia and Carolina athletics circles. Davidson is to be congratulated on securing his services.

Fetzer takes the place of his brother, "Bob" Fetzer, who led Davidson through one of the most successful seasons on record. The team tasted defeat only once during the entire season, and tallied a total of 25 victories over opponents. Davidson has a wide acquaintance among the college athletes of the South. It is responsible for a large part of the success of the past season.

Bill Fetzer is a graduate of Davidson, class 1905. While there he played on both the varsity baseball and football teams for three years, and was picked for the all-south Atlantic half-back in the latter sport. Since leaving college he has been connected with practically all the teams of the South in the capacity of either player or manager. He was also for a time with Charlotte, later with Anderson, in the Carolina association. He finished the season with Connie Mack. He holds the record for the longest hit ball in the Virginia league.

Retiring from professional baseball he took up coaching at Pikesville Military academy, having an interest in that school. For the past two seasons "Bill" has been conducting camp Ruppert in western North Carolina, near Brevard, and directing the athletics of that camp. Fetzer's strong point in the coaching line is the developing of young pitchers. Several notable instances of his efficiency in this line are Moran, the Washington and Lee star, southpaw, who is now connected with the Norfolk, Va., "Watts" club, another Washington and Lee star, now pitcher with the Roanoke in the Virginia league, and many other college pitchers of less note.

The prospects for a winning team in baseball next spring are exceedingly bright. Eight of their last year's team returned, viz., Crayton, Somerville, Crismon, Watkins, Stough, Brown, Walker and Klutz. The only weak point seems to be a scarcity of pitchers. They report an abundance of fresh material, and with the new arrivals after the holidays and Fetzer's efficient coaching, Davidson will undoubtedly have a winning team.

The straffe is said to be the only animal that is entirely dumb, but any manager can point out four or five during a game that he believes at least to the straffe.

MICHIGAN AND HARVARD.

On the afternoon of October 31 there was better feeling between Michigan and Harvard than we have seen in a long time between two football machines.

But in the last week Michigan's taste has changed with rare suddenness. To put it briefly and compactly Michigan is something more than peevish—with the arrow pointing to Harvard's direction.

The trouble seems to be this: In 1914, Harvard, with nine veterans and a great machine did, invited Michigan to visit her in Boston. Michigan, with two veterans and a green machine, accepted the invitation.

In accepting this game, Michigan took a chance on a 1915 game with Harvard which would have a green team and Michigan would be composed mainly of seasoned players. Michigan took a chance—but even a year ago Yost couldn't see the chance. He was hitlerly opposed to the game for the reason that Harvard play was in 1915; he said with a snort, "It's the biggest joke of the year. You'll find out. We'll have a good team in 1915, and Harvard will lose. Brickley, Harwick, Pennock, Legash, Trumbull, Bradlee and others. We haven't got a chance to win this season, and we haven't got a chance to play Harvard next season."

THE PLOT THICKENS.

But after the Harvard-Michigan battle it looked as if Yost was wrong. Harvard's graduate manager offered Michigan's graduate manager a game for 1915, but could make no promise regarding a return game at Ann Arbor for the year after.

It was understood between the two that Michigan was to visit Harvard next fall and that Harvard might, but wouldn't promise to visit the west in 1916. Michigan had decided definitely to accept Harvard's offer.

THEN THE SHOCK.

At which point the shock arrived. Harvard wired that her coaches were against taking the Michigan game "as Harvard would have a green eleven for 1915, and Michigan, with her veteran team, would be too difficult a game."

It was this message that jolted the Wolverine. Michigan took a long chance in 1914, and she believes Harvard should be willing to make it 50-50 on chances, even after playing both games in Boston.

Harvard, as a rule, is broader minded in her schedule arrangements than any university we know of. But in the above instance, with the facts as they are set forth, she believes that Michigan is entitled to a lousy kick. The only Michigan athlete who doesn't feel upset is Yost. He wanted the game more than any one else, but felt all along that Harvard had no intention of making it a two-year test.

THE KINK.

The trouble with this as in other football affairs is that all connected with football take the game entirely too seriously. A defeat isn't a disgrace and a victory doesn't add one thousandth of one per cent to the common good.

Football was first established as a friendly intercollegiate romp. It has since grown into a young war. It's about time that it was being pointed back to the vicinity of its start.

ANOTHER SUGGESTION.

There's more than one college in America with more than one paid football player enrolled. These colleges in the main are pretty well paid. And the only way to suppress this professional taint is to have them dropped. For with the big game money now in evidence the time has come when the professional phase in football must be closely watched. The most effective stand against professional football is the rubbering of all freshmen from the team, a three-year allowance for play and strict scholarship eligibility.

Rule to Define Many Stars for Golf Amateur Indoor Meet

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—A proposed amendment to the by-laws of the United States Golf association to more clearly define the status of an amateur player was submitted to the annual meeting of the association here January 8.

The proposed amendment defines an amateur as one "who does not accept money, or the equivalent thereof, directly or indirectly, in his association with the game of golf." Exceptions provide that an amateur's standing shall not be jeopardized by writing articles about, or reporting golf matches. Menace of drugs or corporations selling golf supplies and players making wagers on the game are excepted in the proposed amendment.

Violations include teaching the game of golf for money, receiving pay as caddies after reaching the age of 18 and professional play in any other branch of sport.

Grid. Stars on Boys' High Five

At Least Four Regulars From the Football Team Will Represent Team in Basketball

When the 1915 prep basketball season starts it will look to the rest of the prep fans as if Boys' High had simply transplanted their football team from the gridiron to the basketball court, for with one possible exception, five regular football players of the victorious 1914 football team will compose their quintet this season.

At forwards, Boys' High will be represented by two of the best in the league. Alfred Scott, who is well known to prep athletes as probably the best forward the team has ever had, will add down one berth, and should do it even better than last year. He is captain of the life. At the other, Branard Adams will make his debut as a prep basketball player. Adams, up until the time he was forced to retire from football activities, was one of the best halves in the game, and from all advance dope he appears to be as good a forward.

At center, Hicks, the hard-working center, is trying to make the grade. "Buddy" Little, unknown to the prep world of sport, is opposing him for the place. At the present writing it looks as if "Buddy" will get the place, as he is playing the better game so far.

At guards, Boys' High will spring a big surprise. Jim Lowry, known to the circles on account of his varied athletic accomplishments at different schools in the circuit, is playing one of the best guard games at the other. The playing of Lowry at a guard will come as a surprise to those who played anywhere on a quintet except forward or center, and it was supposed that the game of course play, and the places for Boys' High. However, good guards were lacking, and as forward and center seemed to be well taken care of, Coach Moore decided to switch Lowry to a guard. Lowry should make a good guard. He is big and understands the game.

The team is being coached by Guy Moore, who is connected with the faculty of Boys' High and also director of athletics at the school. Moore for some years has been at St. Ann's, where he turned out some great teams while at this school.

Vandy Prepares For Basketball

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 22.—The schedule of the Vanderbilt basketball team for the coming season has been announced, including fourteen games in this year's varsity, three trips being in this number. The games with local Young Men's Christian association teams and the reserves of the college will be new, and the schedule will open January 1.

The teams to be played are as follows: January 5, Cumberland university at Lebanon; January 8, Chattanooga Young Men's Christian association at Chattanooga; January 16, University of Tennessee at Knoxville; February 5, University of Georgia; February 13, Cincinnati Young Men's Christian association at Cincinnati; February 19, Kentucky State at Lexington; February 26, Jackson Young Men's Christian association at Jackson; February 25, Memphis Young Men's Christian association at Memphis; February 25, Union University at Knoxville; February 26, Cumberland; March 5, Kentucky State; and two games with the Young Men's Christian association, Nashville, of Nashville, date not yet determined.

The new rule of the Southern intercollegiate athletic association which allows an athlete to play four years in any sport save back to Vanderbilt too basketball stars who would otherwise have been lost to the team. Tom Brown, center, has played four years of football, and Morgan, guard, has played four of baseball. The addition of these two under the new Southern intercollegiate athletic association rule makes the field of basketball candidates at Vanderbilt the most promising in several years. Only one regular is lost from last year's varsity.

The list from which the varsity will be made up includes Scarlett, old Birmingham star; Captain and Manager Davidson; Morgan, T. Brown, Sikes, C. Brown, Woodard, Rye, Parker, Jarrett, Turner and John C. Davidson and Sikes will probably play forward, Woodard and T. Brown center, and Morgan, Sikes and Turner guard.

Coach Denton is putting the squad through stiff practices daily, and the team will get down to hard work on the return after the holidays. The outlook is bright for a successful year.

New York in the 600 yard run and Edward K. Stebbins and Marshall Low of Georgetown university.

When Connie Mack started the baseball world by asking for waivers on Bender, Coombs and Plank, and then came right back with another solar Plexus clout, with the announcement that Eddie Collins had been sold to the White Sox, he did more than start down the column of expenses. It was a process of housecleaning within his own domicile. The sale of Collins did considerably more than break up the famous Collins - Toal - Barry - McInnis combination. This, and the passing of the three celebrated hurlers, furnished the foundation for a new era in baseball. Reports, and speculations as to the consideration that moved the Silent Leader to act.

A late cry is that Connie lopped off his stars for the very simple reason that he is inaugurating a policy of retrenchment, and that he is going right down the column of expenses. The argument is being made that the overhead expense including shop and outfit tools is proving too much. In other words, that the amount of capital invested in the baseball game, and the amount of operating expenses concerning chiefly the salaries of the players, are such that there is nothing left in the hands of the owner to spring a dividend after the annual clean-up following the close of the season.

No doubt there is some merit in this argument. Hardly a club in either of the big leagues but what has a good time, while the Adams men at the other, as playing grounds. Doubtless the yearly income of the clubs, and the amount of operating expenses concerning chiefly the salaries of the players, are such that there is nothing left in the hands of the owner to spring a dividend after the annual clean-up following the close of the season.

From all the discussion being evoked over a proposed match between Packer and Freddy Welsh for the lightweight title, it appears that one lone pound of silver and tin is again about to assume all the importance that it carried in the life of one Slylock in the Shakespearean period. As near as we can learn, only one pound in weight is keeping this brace of battlers apart.

Packer admits that if Welsh will let him come in at 135 pounds six hours before the fight, he is willing to forsake the quiet and sequestered paths of the new married life to regain for the time being, the old path of the prizefighter. Packer, who believes he can knock Packer's bloom off, and if there's only 135 pounds of tin and tin yards by in a bunch when he enters the ring. Great battles have turned on a margin.

Talane university is the latest entry to declare itself for the big football job. New Orleans institution has announced that freshmen, as many as can make the team, will be allowed to play football for the Olive and Blue. Others are yet to be heard from.

Speaking of the football situation, the jackets are sitting back as calmly as the guy who is anchored behind a couple of bulging barrels, while the rest of the team is playing. The local collegians have had enough of forty-seven down, and now, to play games at Grand old field, and their idea of nothing to worry about.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 22.—The University of South Carolina's football schedule for 1915, announced here Tuesday, is as follows:

October 2—Newberry College at Columbia.
October 9—Presbyterian College of South Carolina at Columbia.
October 16—Mercer University at Columbia.
October 21—A. M. of North Carolina at Raleigh (North Carolina State fair).
October 28—Clemson College at Columbia (South Carolina State fair).
November—Davidson at Charlotte, North Carolina.
November 18—University of Virginia, at Columbia.
November 25—The Citadel at Columbia.

This schedule was much shaken up for next year so as to get a better balanced season.
